

I think we should keep the No Call List active. It's been a pleasure not getting those unwanted sales calls at all hours of the night. If we want to buy something we will ask for it or look for it. It's rude to interrupt someone's private wind down time at home, especially when the interruptions are not welcome.